Weekly Update

May 17th, 2011 by Happy Maau

We're still working on the massive update to Math Ref and the even bigger news is that we're working on our first game too. First off, Math Ref. As you may know the update (2.3.4) for both the free and paid version of the app became available last week on the App Store, so if you haven't updated we really hope you do. With every update we need to hear from you guys to know what we're getting right and what needs work. You don't have to write a review even giving us stars helps. So, if you have a second head over to the App Store and rate http://tunes.apple.com/us/app/math-ref/id301384057?mt=8">Math Ref and/or Math Ref Free. Also, in Math Ref news we'd like to bring to everyone's attention this cool little site http://sumtimesrational.com/. These guys are some Math Ref users who reached out to us and, full disclosure here, we're looking to start a and, full disclosure here, we're looking to start a partnership with them that will allow some amazing new features to be added to Math Ref. Take some time and read their nice (unsolicited) comparison of Math Ref and Math Pro, another great math app.

A while back we mentioned that we were toying with the idea of making our first game. We'll earlier this month that idea became much more tangible and real. We're targeting an end of the year release and we'll be posting demo builds on the site for you all to try out and give us feedback on before we release it to the world. We've got so much planned for this year and next and just want to say thank you so much for all your support.

Comments and criticisms are always welcome so either leave them below or contact us using any of the links in the sidebar. Have an awesome week everyone!
